

The Open Window

Who is taking girls from their homes. You should feel safe there. Mom and dad will protect you from all the evil. These are thoughts that most all of us had when we were growing up. You should always feel safe at home especially in your own bedroom. I can remember at night when it was raining or if we had a bad storm with the wind blowing and the tree branches swaying back and forth outside casting shadows on my bedroom wall gave me the creeps. Some of them looked like the hand of a monster trying to grab me and drag me away into the closet or under the bed. I would always run over and close the window to keep the monster outside and I would always feel safer when I covered my head up so I didnt have too see them. But what about the kids that saw monsters outside their windows and they really got taken away from their home. Who was taking the children and what was he doing with them. Was he selling them into slavery or was he a murdering pedophile. Some one had to find him and stop him. Detective Mike Mason was drawn out of his short retirement to assist in this manhunt. Can he catch him before he takes any more children or will the list get longer.
