

Memoirs Travels of Sir John Reresby, Bart (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Memoirs Travels of Sir John Reresby, Bart The present text is a reprint of the volume issued in 1813 as The Memoirs and Travels of Sir John Reresby, Bart. The former containing Anecdotes, and Secret History, of the Courts of Charles II. and James II. The latter (now first published) exhibiting a view of the Governments and Society in the Principal States and Courts of Europe during the time of Cromwells usurpation. London: Printed for Edward Jeffery, Pall Mall, and J. Rodwell, New Bond Street. The editor of the 1813 volume speaks, in his preface, of receiving from the liberal hand of Christopher Hodges, Esq. of Bramdean, in Hants, a present of the Travels of Sir John Reresby, in a fair manuscript of the time of the Author, and very probably written by his own hand, which Mr. Hodges purchased out of the library of Mr. Topham Beauclerk. The Editor, having now prefixed these Travels to the Memoirs, offers to the public a volume which may not improperly be called the Works of Sir John Reresby, as it includes all that he is known to have written. This 1813 edition was issued in two forms, one of which was illustrated with portraits and views, plain and coloured.
