

Potus Goes to Washington

The governor of Kansas is elected to the highest office in the land. As President of the United States, he promises to right the wrongs that plague the great states of America. His populist platform involves getting rid of Daylight Savings and abolishing Congress. With his silent, brave, and heroic Secret Service agent Johnson by his side, he attempts to confront his political enemies on the open field of backroom meetings. His most trusted allies and head maid turn against him in an all-out battle to determine who will control the Whitehouse lunch menu. Can he implement his reforms and turn the clock back on Daylight Savings before he is impeached?
