

A Southern Rebel: The Life and Times of Aubrey Willis Williams, 1890-1965 (The Fred W. Morrison series in Southern studies)

Williams, an Alabama liberal committed to civil rights long before such a position was expedient in the South, became the director of the National Youth Administration where he hired blacks and supported labor unions, public housing, public health, and public education. This biography contributes to our knowledge of the Roosevelt administration and sheds new light on the civil rights movement and the power of right-wing political groups to undermine the democratic process. Originally published in 1983.
